"U. S. AGENCIES FOR FOOD SAVING EXCELL"

Dean Mumford Says They Will Aid Farmers to Produce More, Too.

LESS WASTE URGED

Eat More Cornbread and Perishable Produce, Is Speaker's Advice.

The agencies to be depended upon for food conservation in the United States are unexcelled. This is the belief of Dean F. B. Mumford, who spoke this morning on "Federal and State Plans for Food Conservation." Dean Mumford's lecture was the first of a series to be given on food conservation in the University Auditorium.

"The agencies to be depended upon," the speaker said, "are the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, the state colleges of agriculture, the agricultural extension services and the National and State Councils for Defense. These are educational agencies and will give the farmer the idea of speeding up food conservation and production."

"The National Council for defense will co-ordinate all these activities to avoid waste and secure economy and efficiency in farm production. In the state the Governor has appointed a State Council for Defense to co-operate in the move for food conservation."

More Perishables to Be Used.

The speaker told of the plans of the Federal Government and of what H. C. Hoover expects to do. There will be less waste and more consumption of perishables and local foodstuffs, so that all excesses and staple products can be exported to the Allies. "If we do not supply the Allies with food," he continued, "we shall have to fight the battle alone."

"There is no reason why anyone should suffer, or be undernourished. All will have plenty of food, but not in excess. However, many will have to change their habits or starve. We will have to eat more cornbread and less butter and fats. There will be meatless and wheatless days."

According to Dean Mumford, the food reserves of the world are now lower than they have ever been. At Rome the international statistical authorities say that the world's wheat crop is 25 per cent lower than the 1916 yield. Although crop conditions in the United States are reported favorable, about 35 per cent of the winter wheat has been abandoned because of dry weather.

Intensive Farming Is Urged.

"The American farmer," he explained, "can increase his farm production by increased acreage and more intensive farming. The opportunities for intensive farming are unlimited, because it has been very little practiced in the United States. In Europe the land has been worked to its utmost capacity."

Food conservation during war times, the speaker said, is necessary, because a nation cannot conduct its war with food riots at home. A reasonable foresight and preparation at the beginning will keep us from facing the food problem that exists in Europe.

Miss Carrie Pancoast of the Agricultural Extension Service will give the second of the food conservation lectures at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. She will talk on "The Elimination of Food Waste."

BOONE COUNTY FAIR IS NOT YET ASSURED

Merchants Offer Help, But Leave It to Fair Board to Make Decision.

OCTOBER IS FAVORED

Later Date Will Make Horse Exhibit Possible—Board to Meet July 21.

The Retail Merchants' Association at its meeting last night decided to leave the matter of a County Fair entirely to the County Fair Board, and to offer their services to make the Fair a success. It was the opinion of all that October is a better month for the Fair than August. Some of the reasons given were cooler weather, better condition of live stock, greater number of agricultural products ready for exhibit and possibilities for a larger attendance on account of the students who will be here in October. It was pointed out that there were no students at all here in August, and that many of the business men and faculty men used this month for their vacations.

One of the chief reasons for the original decision not to have a fair was that the other fairs which horsemen visit in circuit with the Boone County Fair were withdrawing, and it would be difficult to get the horses for racing. The Fair Board did not think it would be possible to meet the expenses with an agricultural fair alone. If the Boone County Fair is held in October, it will be possible to draw upon the horses at the Royal Horse Fair in Kansas City and the Sedalia State Fair, both of which would immediately precede the Fair at Columbia.

If the Fair is held in October, the Poultry Association has agreed to co-operate by holding the Poultry Show at the same time. It was suggested also that the College of Agriculture of the University would be able to give more assistance after school had commenced.

It was offered in opposition to the argument that war time is not time for a fair, that it would assist in the solution of the food problem by stimulating production, both in quality and quantity. One member of the association reported that the production of mules in the county had increased 25 per cent this year, and attributed the increase, in part, to the interest taken in the Mule Colt Show.

"It will be the biggest advertisement Columbia ever had," said one member, who explained that attention would be brought to a town that could have a fair when all the neighboring towns of its class could not have one.

The County Fair Board will meet Saturday, July 21, to further consider the Fair.

ARMY WILL BE PICK OF COUNTRY'S YOUTH

War Department Outlines the Physical Requirements for the Draft.

STANDARD IS RIGID

Mental Test Designed Only to Determine Man's General Ability.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 10.—The men in America's armies will be the most perfect physical specimens in the nation. In regulations outlining the physical requirements for the draft, issued by the War Department today, rigid standards are set up. In general, the following are the requirements: Height, from 5 feet 4 inches to 6 feet 6 inches. Weight, between 118 and 211 pounds. However, these standards are not absolute, but a man under 5 feet 4 inches must be of specially good physique. Variations in weight above 211 pounds are not disqualifying unless they are sufficient to constitute obesity.

The mental test is designed only to develop whether a man is of sound understanding. Examination of the eyes and ears are made by charts and whispering tests. Almost any defect of the lungs or heart is disqualifying. The man must have four serviceable molars—two above and two below, opposed.

Before the heart and lung test the drafted man is required to jump straight up, kick his heels up behind, hop along the room, first on one foot and then on the other, and then make several standing jumps.

HOLLWEG DOES NOT STATE PEACE TERMS

Switzerland Reports That Chancellor Refuses to Answer Socialists.

STILL HOPES TO WIN

Kaiser, Backed by Autocrats, Will Not Give Up His "Divine Right" Idea.

By United Press

LONDON, July 10.—Autocratic Germany does not propose to announce to her people nor to the other nations of the world the terms on which she is willing to make peace. That was the point which British officials saw today in reports of Imperial Chancellor Hollweg's speech before the main committee of the German Reichstag as received from Switzerland today.

The chancellor firmly refused to subscribe to the Socialist principle of "no annexations and no indemnities." His stand apparently was that Germany would be able to continue the war indefinitely and, this being so, Germany would win in the end.

That Hollweg's rejection of the Socialist demand for free and detailed outline of the German peace aims was dictated by the Kaiser himself was indicated in other dispatches received today through neutral channels. The Kaiser undoubtedly determined upon continuance of his "divine right" policy at various conferences which have been held during the last few days at Berlin, notably with Field Marshal von Hindenburg and with the Crown Council comprising the autocratic ring of control in Germany.

People Still Behind Kaiser.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 10.—Germany's present political upheaval is only a hopeful sign of a later explosion, in the view of officials here today. From what they can learn from meager reports from neutral countries, they think Germany as a whole will stand steadfast with the Kaiser for the time being.

The demands for a statement of peace terms—without annexations and indemnities—are viewed as a sign, however, of an underlying discontent with things as they are that will grow louder and more insistent as economic and military pressure intensifies.

The Russian offensive has been a blow to Germany. The entrance of America into the war, while scoffed at by the German press, is nevertheless thoughtfully considered by German students and leaders.

As for new peace terms, the attitude of the United States, as it has been, is "no peace until the seas are safe and Germany is forced to abandon her policy of frightfulness." A peace on Germany's own terms, as always hitherto offered, will be promptly refused, though, if her terms are more liberal than in the past, they will tend to bring the two sides nearer to a common basis for negotiations.

"Germany is still unbeaten and will remain so for some time," military experts say. "We may as well realize first as last," they say, "and might as well know, too, that, despite the present mutterings, the German autocracy is still able to bluff its populace to continue the war for a long time."

"The recent explosion is not yet at an end, but these events are straws showing the way the wind blows," said one of the most prominent military men today.

May Accept Ministers' Resignations.

By United Press
AMSTERDAM, July 10.—Unconfirmed reports received here today state that the Kaiser has decided to accept the resignations of Foreign Secretary Zimmermann and Vice-Chancellor Helfferich.

Foreign Secretary Zimmermann has long been under fire in Germany, particularly for his bungling of the Mexican-Japanese plot against the United States.

Vice-Chancellor Helfferich has been charged in connection with his chief, Von Bethmann-Hollweg, in blame for many of the conditions in Germany. His ministerial position puts him in control of internal affairs, and much of the dissatisfaction for graft in food control and rationing of the empire has been laid to him.
